Fifty years of increasing American appeasement in the Middle East have led to fifty years of increasing contempt in the West. This put the U.S. wholesale into the business of creating the greatest obstacle to U.S. victory is not Iran and its allies, but our own intellectuals. Even now, many of them are advising the same ideas that caused our historical failures. They are ignoring a real danger to the free world: that of anti-materialism and selflessness duty, anti-materialism, faith or feeling above personal happiness in a rich, secular, individualist society.

The greatest obstacle to U.S. victory is not Iran and its allies, but our own intellectuals. Even now, many of them are advising the same ideas that caused our historical failures. They are ignoring a real danger to the free world: that of anti-materialism and selflessness duty, anti-materialism, faith or feeling above personal happiness in a rich, secular, individualist society.

The greatest obstacle to U.S. victory is not Iran and its allies, but our own intellectuals. Even now, many of them are advising the same ideas that caused our historical failures. They are ignoring a real danger to the free world: that of anti-materialism and selflessness duty, anti-materialism, faith or feeling above personal happiness in a rich, secular, individualist society.

The greatest obstacle to U.S. victory is not Iran and its allies, but our own intellectuals. Even now, many of them are advising the same ideas that caused our historical failures. They are ignoring a real danger to the free world: that of anti-materialism and selflessness duty, anti-materialism, faith or feeling above personal happiness in a rich, secular, individualist society.